

Art Auction

The Board of Directors of Literacy Volunteers of Santa Fe invites you to

Who does this help?

Literacy is measured on a scale from 1 – 6. Most jobs today require literacy skills at a 7th literacy level or above (levels 4+).

46% of New Mexicans are at level 2 literacy or below.

Literacy Volunteers of Santa Fe (LVSF) is committed to supporting students up to level 4 for reading, writing, and math.

Tiny Art, Big Difference is an auction and sale of original small 8”x 8” artworks presented by Literacy Volunteers of Santa Fe (LVSF) and sponsored by First National 1870.

The public is invited to view the artwork online OR a limited selection at First National 1870 on the Plaza starting Monday June 9th - Friday June 23, 9:00am - 5:00pm at 62 Lincoln Avenue downtown.

Artist Call

April 12th - May 9th

This call is for artists working in two-dimensional mediums who enjoy a challenge and want to help the community through their art.

Artist Benefits

1. Artists who donate work will be promoted through print advertising, e-mail marketing, and social media.
2. Each artwork will carry the artist's contact information and the art's legacy for the buyer.
3. Artists who have photographs of themselves with their artwork can also be promoted through lvsf.org communications.
4. Exposure will elevate each artist and potentially bring them a new fan, follower, or collector.
5. Artists who drop off their artwork to LVSF may be selected for display at First National 1870 on the Plaza.
